New Yorks Break Even and Giants Win---Both Brooklyn Clubs Triumph on First Conflict Day

NEW YORKS FOLLOW BEATING WITH A WIN

First Fracas With Athletics Tangled Grapple of 12 Innings.

GOOD HITTING IN SECOND

Home Players Bunch Their Raps to Good Advantage in the Sixth.

The Athletics had their hands full with the New Yorks in the third double header of the busy series, so much so that they were beaten in the second game after requiring twelve innings to take the first. They held their lead, as the Washingtons were shut out by the Red Sox. The two Johnsons came to grips again, and Rankin put it over Walter. The Detroits won a notable game from the White Sox, and the Browns ran away from the Naps.

tangle to the Athletics yesterday afternoon, but went back at them belligerently and beat them in the second number of the double header. The score was 9 to 8 in the extra inning contest and 4 to 2 in the second. The double dose of matinee consumed within five minutes of five hours, including the interim, and also consumed many pitchers.

The first game stretched over three hours and ten minutes, a long time even for twelve innings, but there was so much scoring and walking and running that teen minutes. In the second game, which full teen minutes. In the second game, which full month of baseball on home grounds was nothing like such a complex affair, the to-day by winning from the White Sox innings averaged nine minutes, Silk O'Loughlin being in charge and keeping the spurs on the athletes every minute. For that reason, although it was 5:20 when the game began and cloudy, Silk the factions through a full game and without encroaching on twilight.

The abnormal wildness shown by Mack's pitchers in the series which closed vesterday inoculated even that self-congame. After the Athletics had jumped away with a fat lead the Chief wabbled in the sixth inning and toppled. He broke out with a fit of poor control and his condition became so alarming that he was Eddie Plank had breasted his way through one inning he was on edge and with men on bases he was too much for the New Yorks. Schulz was a consistent target for By the Athletics and they stacked up a six -Conn run lead on him. Cole and Warhop were improvements, but a bombardment of Warhop in the twelfth turned the trick for the champions.

This six run lead of the Athletics, acquired by the simple process of mauling Schulz's selections with debonair ease, didn't dismay the New Yorks. The latter were good fighters all afternoon. They slugged Bender for a tally couplet in the fourth era and in the sixth made three more on a jumble of passes and a hit by Peckinpaugh, who hewed the alien twirling for four safeties and rolled home with four runs.

The New Yorks took the lead in the seventh, Plank pitching. A base on balls to Gossett was followed by a single by Peck. Williams, who notched his gun with two singles and a triple, made his triple at this juncture and the triphammer welt sent two runs across. Holden booted on a sacrifice hit and a sacrifice fly, which he wouldn't have done had Holden held him at first base, as far as he was entitled to migrate on his thrust.

A superb catch by Boone, who speared Schang's flerce slam at the right field wall, prevented trouble in the eleventh, but in the twelfth Murphy's double, Colline's triple and Baker's single did the business. The New Yorks in their grilled Plank for three singles, but that aged expert surrounded the three hits with as many strikeouts.

The new outfielder, Meara, the number of whose well wishers in the stands was legion, did pretty well at his big ague debut party. He made a timely anably. # He was the most willing hitter ever seen, that is he offered at pretty nearly every ball pitched to him. His theory seemed to be that the oftener you swing the more likely you are to hit one. The second game was sharper and more businesslike, though not so exciting or feverish. McHale pitched a capital game and queste the designing sluggers. This tilt contained not a little refulgent fielding, as did the first for the matter. The r. f. mostly took the form of spectacular catches, with Barry, Collins, Hartzell and Boone the participants in the spectacular seizures. In the second game Baker, at third, had seven putouts and Truesdale, at second, nine assists.

The New Yorks won in the sixth inning. They blazed forth with the best consecutive hitting they have done in many days. Brown was effective in all the other innings, but in that one they smote him all in a heap.

The attack got under way with one out. A base on balls to McHale opened the avenue to the plate. Maisel singled, but was thrown out trying to stretch his hit. Hartzell made an infield bit. Cock.

Many Get on Base But Few Get Off

THE three double headers be tween the New Yorks and Athletics just finished were conspicuous for the number of men left on bases and the passes given. The Mackian pitchers were exceptionally wild. They gave thrity-three bases on balls in six games. The New York pitchers gave twelve, making a total of forty-five. In all 105 men were left on bases, forty-nine of the Athletics and fifty-six of the New Yorks. Combining the walks with the hits, not to mention a few errors and hit batsmen, the series was remarkably fruitful in producing travellers on

New York in Philadelphia. Two games, Boston in Brooklyn. Two games. Pittsburg in Chicago. Cincinnati in St. Louis.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 .- The Giants reappeared here to-day and celebrated attaining first place by disposing of the Phillies by a score of 11 to 7. The Phillies outhit the Giants, pounding Mathewson hard, but they afforded Mayer such ragged support that the New Yorkers had no trouble in making their fewer hits yield a greater number of runs

Mayer in reality pitched good ball and with the batting behind him should have carried off the honors easily, but while get away from them continually. Quakers started off with a rush two doubles and a single accounting for two doubles and a single accounting for the pair in the opener, and Luderus's smash over the right field wall the lone tally in the second. Against that lead the Giants accumulated as much as one run on a single by Merkle and a double by Meyers, aided and abetted by a wild throw on the part of Luderus. Going down to first on his hit, Merkle did damage to his ankle and limped home on the Chief's hit. He was relieved from fur-ther duty and McGraw shifted Snodgrass to first and sent Red Murray to right

The latter held Boston Aitchison's performance stood out as forcibly, because he was in far more trouble than Allen. The latter held Boston to three hits, and as he did not issue a pass after the second inning the visiting team never had him backed up into a corner. A number of times Altchison was confronted with the possibility of a ruinous pinch hit. On these occasions he pulled himself out of the predicaments.

In the second contest Gowdy's drive than a mere possibility. To add to the tenseness, Eddie Shea, the understudy boxman, pitched a game that weakened more than one heart in the grand stand, was crowded with the supposed weaker sex. Shea insisted on digging holes in practically every inning. To the relief of the majority of the fans he would extricate himself just when the hour looked cate himself just when the hour looked

The closest scorch occurred in the eighth inning. Seymour singled to left and moved to second on a wild pitch. Ahearn singled over second and Watt threw himself in front of the ball. In a squatting position Bobby threw to Roseff to head off Seymour at the plate. Roseff nabbed the ball with his bare hand and targed the runner inches away from the Kid Elberteid is beginning to show some respect for his brittle bones. There was a time when he was willing to take one from any pitcher in order to gain his base. Tabasco's right shin, wounded by Hess, wis still bothering him after the game. O'Mara seems very lively in the field. He is full of chatter, and before he was out terminutes had all of the Dodgers keyed up to unusual spirit. The recruit made a bobbie of his first chance, perhaps owing to nervousness. Later he showed a couple of very smart plays.

Tom Seaton and Dan Murphy beat the Terrapins by a score of 4 to 1 at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. Seaton was responsible for the one and Murphy for three-fourths of the four. The Baltimore Federals were helpless before the star hurler of the Tip Tops in all but the one inning in which they scored, despite the fact that Seaton's mates forced him into several unpleasant predicaments by messing up things in the field.

Westerzil and Hofman seemed almost to be allied with the enemy. The former Stallings had to send right handed pitchers to their rescue. Tyler appeared anything but right. Hess was much the better of the two. He was lifted in the eighth inning of the afternoon game to make room for a pinch hitter.

The most pleasing feature of Brooklyn's double triumph was the clever work of Allen. This young man had been very erratic in his home games heretofore this season. Usually he was far too wild to be effective. But after two innings he pitched practically perfect baseball. Besides he won his own game and anything to do with the plays abounded. Columbia won in spectacular fashion from Syracuse on South Field yesterday afternoon by a score of 1 to 0. A little suspense followed while Bobby Watt filed out. Then Charlie Hann whaled out a hit to left field, three feet from the foul line.

A youngster named Conley did some artistic pitching for the Terrapins in the first two innings and seemed likely to down the great Seaton when his mates gave him a one run lead in the second inning. Hack Simmons, the former Chanceman, began the session with a two bagger against the left field wall. Knabe's sacrifice put him on third and a

Murphy hit the ball straight over second base for a clean single, and Eyans by a powerful sprint from first managed to score the third run ahead of the throw.
